Bank Robber's Release Questioned

Probation Irks Police

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The release from incarceration of convicted bank robber Gregory Raymond has Daly City police, agents of the Federal Bureau of Invesitigation and at least one North County bank president fuming.

The 24-year-old Raymond, a part-time student at San Francisco State at the time of his arrest, was convicted of robbing the Skyline Branch of the First National Bank of Daly City twice — in two weeks.

Raymond, arrested on Nov. 18, 1975, following a high-speed pursuit along the Coast Highway during which he tried to run down Police Sgt. Ralph Warren, was tried and convicted in February and sentenced to prison by U.S. District Judge Stanley Weigel shortly thereafter.

On June 14, after serving less than four months in Pleasanton at the Federal Youth Corrections facility — a co-ed type facility purportedly with open dormitories and a college atmosphere. Raymond came before the Probation Hearing Board.

Wednesday, Raymond was placed on five years probation.

Assistant Police Chief Richard Sims, of Daly City, a graduate of the FBI Academy and a veteran of more than two decades in law enforcement, said he was "absolutely stunned" by Raymond's release.

"What Judge Weigel has done is give every would-be bank robber carte blonhe to go out and rob banks," Sims said.

Ironically, Sims said the Daly City Police Department was "talked out of trying Raymond locally for violation of state laws."

"We were convinced (by the FBI) Raymond would be given a stiffer penalty if he came before a federal judge," Sims said.

A Peninsula FBI agent, who asked he not be identified, agreed with Sims that Raymond "got off too easy."

"The arrest of Raymond, his incarceration and, especially, his trial cost taxpayers a lot of money and consumed much time. This (early release) comes as a real blow," the agent said.

Even more voceferous in his denunciation of the early release of Raymond is First National Bank president Charles K. Turner.

"We're still out over $4,000," Turner said. "There was no order (given by Judge Weigel) for restitution, or even an apology."

Bitterly, Turner added, "We haven't been able to find out if Judge Weigel gave Raymond the gun back."

Raymond was found guilty of entering the First National Bank's Skyline Branch office in Daly City late last year armed with a .38 caliber revolver.

He threatened three women tellers and fled after grabbing $4,200 in cash.

Two weeks later, Raymond returned to the same bank, again pulled the revolver and again ordered bank employees to hand over the cash.

He fled to a waiting car with $5,200 of the bank's money.

But this time a witness was able to jot down the license number of the gunman's car and flashed the information to police in the area.

Roadblocks were set up and police cars began pursuing Raymond down the coast freeway.

Police forced Raymond's car to a stop.

Sgt. Warren reportedly got out of his patrol car behind Raymond's car at which time the robber put his car in reverse and tried to run the police officer down.

Raymond once again sped off down the freeway after inflicting major damage on two police cars, Sims said.

Finally, about two miles from the bank robbery scene, Raymond was apprehended and booked into the Daly City jail on several violations, including armed bank robbery and assault.

In Judge Weigel's court, Raymond was found guilty on two counts of armed bank robbery.

Maximum penalties for this conviction could have resulted in Raymond receiving 50 years behind bars.

Raymond was sent to Pleasanton where the normal stay, according to police, is two years.

The federal judge gave Raymond six months — with credit for time already served.

Raymond served 1-150th of the sentence he might have served.

"With these sentences robbers will be lining up at our tellers' windows waiting to rob us," Turner said.

Gunman Subdued By Two

A 16-year-old gunman was arrested in Daly City Friday morning after he failed in a bid to rob a McDonald's restaurant in the Serramonte area.

Two of the hamburger chain's employes — manager Clifton Billings, 27, of South San Francisco, and assistant manager Ronald J. Wilczynski, 24, of San Bruno, managed to subdue the unidentified Southern California youth until police arrived.

The gunman persuaded Billings to unlock a front door of the restaurant shortly after closing, about midnight, police said.

Once inside, the gunman pulled a .357 revolver from his belt and ordered Billings and Wilczynski to hand over the day's receipts.

Instead, Wilczynski jumped the youth and began struggling with him.

During this altercation, the gun discharged twice, narrowly missing the employe's head, police said.

The gunman managed to free himself and once again pointed the gun at the two employes warning "That wasn't very cool . . . now give me the money."

He also demanded the keys to Billing's car.

As the youth started to leave the restaurant via a side door, Wilczynski vaulted the counter and jumped the armed robber for the second time.

Billings joined in the struggle as the youthful gunman fired a third shot.

During this second attempt to subdue the alleged robber, seven of his teeth were knocked loose, apparently by Billings.

Billings said the gunman was biting his finger and the teeth were apparently knocked loose when he extracted his hand from the youth's mouth.

Bernard M. Scontell, 20, a security guard with a Sunnyvale firm, happened by the restaurant, saw the struggle and picked up the gun.

The youth was finally subdued and turned over to Daly City police.

Billings was treated for a badly lacerated finger.

Wilczynski suffered damaged ear drums from the gunshots and a cut on his face.

The unidentified youth was treated for lacerations, bruises and broken teeth.

Police booked the unsuccessful robber for armed robbery, assault with a deadly weapon, possession of a firearm by a minor, possession of a concealed weapon, possession of a loaded firearm and use of a firearm in the commission of a robbery.

GOODWILL TOUR

His Holiness Baba Gurbachan Singh was in Daly City Friday and spoke in San Francisco to local members of the Universal Brotherhood, whose members number in the millions around the world. He will visit other parts of the U.S., as well as Canada, England and Europe before returning to India.

Jail Ideas Left to Cities

The membership of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities decided last week that individual cities present their views on the matter of a Pre-Arraignment Detention Facility (PDF) and court support facilities directly to the Board of Supervisors.

Attending the meeting was Supervisor John Ward.

Ward praised the present PDF, located at the Daly City Jail, calling it "one of the cleanest jails I've ever been in."

He quickly acknowledged, "Of course, I haven't been in that many jails."

Daly City Assistant Police Chief Richard Sims said the PDF has thus far processed through the jail more than 10,000 persons, charged with a variety of crimes.

Noting that the PDF was not designed to operate at a profit, Sims said the facility required some $180,000 in revenue from participating cities (South San Francisco, San Bruno, Daly City and Pacifica) and indirect costs borne by Daly City and federal grants in 1975.

"We feed those persons processed into the facility 2,000 calories a day, while meeting all federal, state and helath department requirements for jails," Sims said.

"We try not to feed them too well . . . because we don't want them to come back," Sims explained.

Ward said the county jail simply could not have accommodated the 10,000 persons processed through the Daly City jail.

The supervisor pointed out the Redwood City facility "is already crowded."

Chairman Stan Farber, a Pacifica councilman, told the member city representatives attending the meeting in Colma that the county was in the same financial position as many cities — extremely tight budgets caused by lower revenues and higher operating costs.

Ward pledged his support of a North County jail facility of the type now in use in Daly City but said he would not support construction of a new Redwood City jail.

The supervisors said he feels construction of a new jail in the South County would not solve the problem of where to incarcerate arrested persons awaiting arraignment in the north.

In the past, before establishment of the North County PDF, prisoners had to be transported by police to Redwood City.

It usually required two hours to drive to Redwood City, process the prisoners and return to a city beat.

"There is just no way you can place a price tag on how much this loss of police protection means to the public," according to Sims.

'His Holiness' Stops in DC

His Holiness Baba Gurbachan Singh, whose followers number in the millions around the world, stopped over in Daly City Friday to chat with his longtime friend, Councilman McRobert Stewart.

The leader of the Sant Nirankari Mission (Universal Brotherhood) is on a global goodwill tour that will take him to several areas of the United States, Canada, England and Europe before returning to India.

He completed his tour of the Pacific last week, a spokesman for His Holiness said.

McRobert Stewart welcomed His Holiness to the city, presenting him with a proclamation issued by Mayor Anthony A. Giammona.

Giammona was on vacation last week, a City Hall spokesman said.

Sunday, His Holiness gave his Holy Discourse in San Francisco to local followers of the Brotherhood.

The Universal Brotherhood embraces the belief that "Nothing is ours," that all human assets — physical, material and intellectual — are "a divine trust which we can utilize only in the capacity of trustees and not as masters."

Also, followers say there should be no discrimination between man and man on the grounds of color, religion or worldly status, no criticism of others' diet or dress; leading a purposeful self-reliant life and attaining the truth without abandoning the "world life"; and, that the "entire technique of living is founded on the principles of service, constant communion with Divinity, and association with saints."

Dinosaur Eggs to Giant Beetles

'Museum' Filled With Curios

By RICK SULLIVAN

A museum has opened in the City of San Bruno — not a municipal facility but a private gallery, where visitors are allowed to observe freely and touch the artifacts and to purchase them if they like.

How about an 80-million-year-old set of dinosaur eggs for $1,400 apiece? Or a stuffed two-headed calf for $600? Or a pair of gold-colored moths from Thailand, with six-inch wing spans, for $50 a pair?

It's like a freak show has come to town — permanently.

Actually, the natural science establishment has opened its doors to the retail trade on San Mateo Avenue.

George Mendenhall, the proprietor, decided some three months ago to display his impressive collection of relics — some dating back 100 million years.

Mendenhall, a Millbrae resident, has operated a wholesale import-export business in San Bruno since 1968. He owns six museum shops at the California Academy of Arts and Sciences in San Francisco.

A single showcase in his new San Bruno store contains a score of fish, fly and mosquito fossils some 50 million years old and unearthed in Wyoming.

Dinosaur eggs, which Mendenhall claims were laid by a brontosaurus some 80 million years ago and excavated in France, are arranged around the fossils.

Mendenhall says x-rays of the eggs have been taken and show embryos within the pinkish, rock-hard shells.

A stuffed two-headed calf, born in Afton, Wyo., in 1946 sits atop the showcase and stares down passively.

In the back room of his store, Mendenhall keeps another stuffed calf; this one he says was born in Utah without a head. The freak creature is priced at $1,000.

"I keep this one in the back room," Mendenhall explains, "because it might be offensive to some people."

Decorated jaw bones from crocodiles used as weapons by New Guinea tribes and a blow gun from the hill tribes of Thailand are also stored in the rear of his store, soon to be mounted and displayed.

Dancing masks from the tribes of Indonesia and primative spears and shields, plus African fetish dolls hang from the walls.

Most of Mendenhall's showcases, however, contain an assortment of sea shells and dried insects collected predominantly from the tropical regions of the world.

Multi-colored moths and butterflies, which Mendenhall mounts himself will dazzle the beholder; the insects, however impressive, will startle the unsuspecting observer.

"The kids find this store very interesting," says Mendenhall. "It's a great learning experience for them. They seem to be most fascinated by the insects. Soome of them come in here just to buy the 50-cent bugs."

One showcase contains a Megasoma Actaeon, or black beetle from Brazil the size of a boy's fist and two eight-inch long critters, resembling grasshoppers from South East Asia.

Mendenhall says he spent four years working in South East Asia, where he developed an interest in collecting. Before he returned to America to open an import-export company, he organized the natives in West Thailand to collect sea shells for his business.

"The business just mushroomed from there," he remarks.

He now has sales outlets in West Thailand and Japan.

But why open such a specialty shop in San Bruno?

"The majority of my business is wholesale. I'm in no need of a prime retail location."

Meeting for Input on Superintendent Choice

A public meeting to seek community suggestions for the selection of a new South San Francisco Unified School District superintendent will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the district office.

The resignation of Dr. Paul Nielsen last month prompted an all-out search and the public meeting is one of the first steps in the selection process.

The Board of Trustees is hoping to find a replacement for Nielsen by Thanksgiving.

Board President Tom Henkle and Screening Committee Chairman Franklin White both said they have received no input from community groups to date although both are hoping to receive great response.

Henkle said the board will receive any kind of input members of the community wish to provide on Wednesday night concerning the superintendent selection process or possible qualifications of candidates.

White, who is the retiring superintendent of the Menlo Park Elementary School District, said the vacancy will be advertised in national and regional publications until the end of September.

Then the professional screening committee will wade through the applications, expected to number at least 150.

White said the committee will probably narrow the field down to 12 or 15 applicants. After personal interviews, the committee will probably recommend six or seven to the Board of Trustees.

Besides White, the screening committee will include San Bruno Park School Supt. Bill Jennings and Jefferson Union High School District Deputy Supt. Harold Tonini, pending board approval.

A committee of district staff and community members probably won't see the applications until October. The board still must determine how that committee will be selected.

Vietnam Woman Loses All Her Cash

A 28-year-old South Vietnamese woman was ready this Friday to travel from San Bruno to Los Angeles, where she plans to settle with her two children.

However, Tam Thi Vu lost her purse Wednesday. It contained all her savings, $320, her immigration papers, car ownership verfication, her children's birth papers and $70 worth of food stamps.

The Rev. James Devlin of St. Augustine's Catholic Church in South San Francisco said he will work out some way for the young mother to make the trip — although it probably will be delayed.

But the $320 was all the money she has saved since she came to the United States when the North Vietnamese took over her country last year.

She plans to rent a home for herself and her two children, a boy, 2, and a girl, 4. Her husband disappeared into the water when the boat on which she came from South Vietnam overflowed with refugees.

The Rev. Devlin said Mrs. Tam was driving from her house on Longview in San Bruno Wednesday morning to QFI market on King Drive below Skyline Boulevard in Daly City.

She left her purse on top of her car and somewhere en route it fell to the ground.

The papers that were in that purse mean a great deal to her, Father Devlin said.

"It was all the money she had to get to her new place to rent a home," Father Devlin said. "We feel quite bad about it."

The priest said he believes the papers can be replaced for a small charge but it will delay her trip and cause some complications.

The family is one of four leaving this area to make their home in Los Angeles last weekend and this weekend, he said.

Anyone who may have found the purse is asked to contact the church.

Pizza Trail Is Cold

Investigators from the Daly City and San Francisco police departments have thus far failed to turn up any clues in the robbery of a pizza delivery person Monday night.

An as yet unknown male ordered two large pepperoni pizzas and two six packs of beer from Primo's Pizza in San Francisco shortly after 11 p.m. Monday.

The unidentified delivery person took the aromatic pizzas to a Price Street, Daly City, apartment where three youths were waiting outside.

The youths grabbed the pizzas and beer and ran off, the pizza shop employe told police.

"The trail has grown cold now," Daly City Police Lt. Tom Culley said. "If we could have confronted the suspects within a few hours after the robbery, we might have been able to pin the crime on them — by merely smelling their breath."

Hectic Days for County Fire Coordinator

It's Like September — But Worse

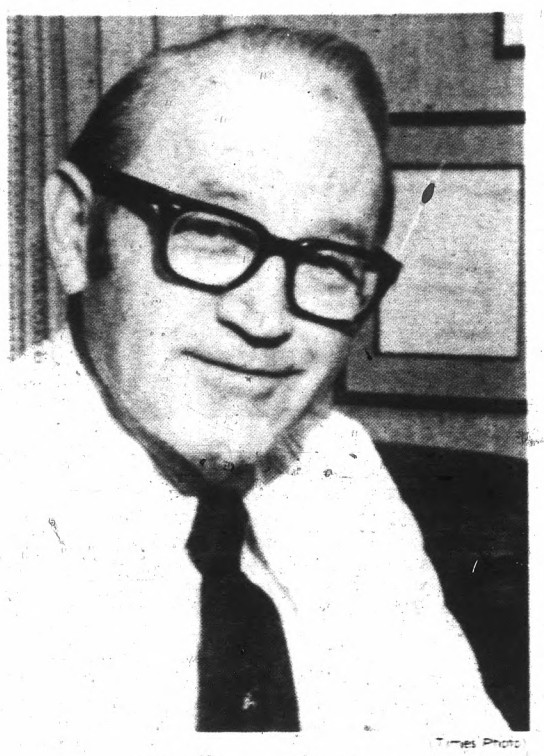
By DUANE SANDUL

The day began as most do for Redwood City Fire Chief John W. Keller Wednesday. The telephone rang.

"Yeah, it's cooling off," Keller told his caller, "but the wind could hurt us. The condition is still critical."

The past few days have been hectic ones for Jack Keller. He is the area fire coordinator for San Mateo County.

High temperatures combined with the lack of winter rainfall have targeted San Mateo County as well as Northern California for potential disaster.



Times Photo

IT'S HOT AT THE TOP

Fire Chief John Keller

Listening to his caller, Keller peeked at his glasses atop his desk. His eyes blinked. He grabbed his coffee cup for a quick swig. In the background, a fire engine was idling.

"I've never seen anything like this in my 42 years in this area," Keller said after he hung up the telephone. "It's bone dry. It looks like September already but even worse."

Four of his aides entered for a briefing.

"Here's where we're at today," the chief began, looking weary from the long hours required because of the fire scene.

"San Francisco wants to send some relief to Red Bluff. The Division of Forestry has closed its station at Emerald Lake, and sent its tanker to Napa. They have only six men at their Belmont station.

"We'll cover Emerald Lake with patrols today. The county fire plan is in effect. If there's a fire, I want it attacked from everywhere.

"Be alert — we've been lucky for three days. What's happening?"

Among other things, Deputy Chief Emile Biagi told Keller that there were strong candidates for the captain's position.

Because of the countywide danger, Chief Keller's attention has been directed elsewhere.

"Say," Keller told Biagi, "We've got to meet with Stan (Woodside Fire Protection Chief Stan Larsen) later today on what to do on the Fourth of July. He's getting apprehensive.

"And by the way," Keller continued, "Kent Paxton at the county level is trying to get some safety equipment for the sheriff's explorers. They're trained to man the firelines, but they don't have any equipment. We may be using them."

The meeting was over. Keller called Rich Figone, Woodside assistant chief.

"Look, Richie, we'll have a patrol out in the Emerald Lake area today," Keller began. "That's right. The division pulled out Tuesday."

Besides his role as area coordinator in San Mateo County, Keller also is the assistant coordinator for 17 Northern California counties. He's frequently receiving updates on fires and its drain on manpower.

"For example, we sent a strike force to Red Bluff. It's headed by Hillsborough Fire Chief William Stremme," Keller said. "He's doing a helluva job."

Another phone call. Keller talked with Steve Richmond, who is in charge of the Division of Forestry in two counties.

"You're down to only two engines in San Mateo County," Keller said, obviously repeating Richmond's message. Usually, the division has 21 engines scattered at various stations in the county. But these times are not usual. Forestry is all over Northern California trying to combat serious fires.

The two men talked for about 10 minutes. "Okay, Steve, I hope I don't see you," Keller said.

Keller hung up and notified the dispatcher to broadcast the news to all county fire departments about the division's "depletion."

Redwood City's dispatcher gives the daily fire weather broadcast and any countywide messages to all stations in the county.

"County warning. Code 3. Message," began Geri Hunter, the dispatcher. "The DIF forces are further depleted. The coordinator says to attack all fires in your area."

Within 30 seconds, Keller's phone rang again. It was Ken Newman, the assistant Hillsborough chief.

"Gosh darn it, Kenny, we're depleted even further," Keller said, as if to confirm the broadcast. "We're getting as thin as thin can be. I'm trying to get the sheriff's office to fly from 2 p.m. to midnight. They've been doing a marvelous job as our eyes . . ."

The conversation continued. Hillsborough was concerned about the division's depletion because of the brushy, grassy areas behind the town.

"We're flexible," Keller told him. "If you get a bad fire, we'll be there. If you need any help, just push the button."

The button. Sounds intriguing. What's the button?

The button activates the newest countywide mutual aid plan.

Keller's deputy chief, Biagi, is one of the prime designers of the plan.

Simplified, the county is divided into three areas, with five jurisdictions to each. By activating the plan, movement begins within the district.

For instance, if Daly City has a fire requiring mutual aid, units respond from South San Francisco, Brisbane, Pacifica and San Bruno.

If necessary, units from the central area will respond as well, as primary or secondary fire fighters.

"It's a systematic manner for the allocation of county fire protection resources to any municipal or district fire department engaged in an emergency extending beyond its control," Biagi explained.

The plan has been activated four times since its inception last month, including last week when a $1.5-million fire struck an industrial plant in San Carlos.

The phone rang again. Richard Bosted, San Carlos' chief, spoke with Keller. Keller concluded, "Just cross your fingers and stay loose, buddy. Keep that brush wet up there."

Brush. It seems to firemen in the summertime that all of San Mateo County is brush. There was that major fire last week at Tunitas Creek on the Coastside.

Recalling it, Keller noted that honor camp inmates — those sentenced for crimes — were used to help combat that fire. "And they're ready to help us fight any fire," the chief said.

"You know," Keller began, "I'm going to address the county's Council of Mayors in September. I'm going to ask them to ban all fireworks next year. The time has come to outlaw them. Why we've had $63,000 worth of structural fire damage caused by fireworks or firecrackers in Redwood City alone already."

The phone rang again. A citizen wanted to know if her children could help fight fires.

Suddenly, three dispatches occurred in rapid succession, all involving grass fires in Belmont.

Keller proudly watched dispatcher Hunter calmly handle the situation. He said he was among the first chiefs to hire women as dispatchers.

More planning. More fire calls. More lamenting.

More well-chosen words expressing his gratitude for the excellent coordination of fire fighting services in San Mateo County and rapport among fire chiefs.

And, as it is for Jack Keller these days, more phone calls.

"It might be cooler, but watch out for those winds," Keller was telling his caller. "And it's going to get hotter again this weekend. Keep your fingers crossed. And remember, we're here if you need us . . ."

Judge Allows College District Plan to Stand

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Peckham Wednesday denied a legal move to block the reorganization of the San Mateo County Community College District.

A contrary decision could have tossed the district into chaos as the division and departmental reorganization went into effect last week.

Zelte Crawford, chairman of the ethnic studies division at College of San Mateo, and two students were seeking a temporary injunction aimed at halting the reorganization.

The reorganization plan consolidates divisions and makes division heads full-time administrators, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas F. Casey III. Crawford's division becomes a department within social sciences.

Casey, the district's counsel, said the Crawford suit alleged employment discrimination and a lack of educational opportunity for Third World students.

The suit, according to Casey, alleged that the reorganization was racially discriminatory, and perpetuated discrimination. It further charged that Third World programs would be cut back.

Casey said that the district argued that the plaintiffs failed to show racial discrimination, and that the Third World program will not be effected by reorganization.

Martin Eichner of Menlo Park was pitted against Casey in presenting arguments to Judge Peckham. The judge rendered a verbal decision denying the injunction.

Units Join Town Hall

A number of San Mateo County homeowner groups are planning to ally themselves with the Town Hall Association of San Mateo County.

A meeting on this subject was held last Wednesday at the Beresford Recreation Center in San Mateo.

An estimated 25 homeowner organization representatives turned out to voice the view that their interests at the county level could best be served by joining forces with the association.

The homeowner groups are seeking ways to keep tabs on county budgets and expenditures. A merger with the association may be one way to do it, it was pointed out.

Killer Sent to Institution

The killer of 87-year-old Laura Dunnigan of Pacifica last March, Carl Casperson, is on his way to Atascadero State Hospital until he regains his sanity.

Superior Court Judge Alan W. Haverty ordered the commitment Thursday.

Last month, Casperson was found not guilty by reason of insanity. Psychiatrists reported that Casperson, 27, told them that the "demons made me do it." He had known Mrs. Dunnigan for several years.

Councilwoman Heads Unit

San Mateo Councilwoman Jane Baker has been appointed to the joint policy committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) and the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC).

AEROSPACE

Garth D. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Lee, of P.O. Box 1076, Montara, has joined the Aerospace team as a professional member of the U.S. Air Force.

Garth is presently in the Delayed Enlistment Program awaiting orders to report for transitional training at San Antonio, Texas.

During his Air Force enlistment, Garth will learn the valuable skills in the general aptitude area.

County Tax Rise Proposed

By BOB HEMINGWAY

A proposed 1976-77 San Mateo County budget of $174,629,778, which if adopted in its recommended form would entail a tax rate increase of about 33 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, was submitted to the Board of Supervisors today by County Manager M.D. Tarshes.

The board scheduled the first of 10 days of public hearings on the proposed budget for July 22 at 9 a.m. in the Hall of Justice, Redwood City.

As submitted by Tarshes, the new budget would increase by 12.2 per cent, or $18,996,723 above the adopted 1975-76 budget of $155,633,055.

In his budget message, Tarshes reported that a tax rate of $1.99 per $100 of assessed valuation would be necessary to procure the $47,579,566 needed to be raised from property taxes.

His tax rate estimate is based on the 4.10 per cent increase in assessed valuation of the county this year.

Noting that the Board of Supervisors effected a 25-cent drop in the tax rate last year when the assessed valuation increased by 16.66 per cent, Tarshes said:

"In view of the severe reductions in fund balance and non-departmental revenues, and assessed valuation increase considerably lower than the rate of inflationary cost increases, the prediction of a tax rate increase should be no surprise."

In his message, Tarshes noted that the proposed budget contains financing for a number of "policy items" totaling $7,512,814 in costs which the board will have to decide on accepting or rejecting during its budget hearings. Of the total cost of "policy items," the net county cost would be $5,309,571, with the balance coming from federal and state grants and revenues.

Tarshes reports that in his proposed budget a total of more than $7.3 million is included as appropriations for the first time, but is almost entirely offset by special revenues.

The appropriations, some included for accurate accounting purposes, are Manpower, Aging, Community Development, special census, PRISM criminal records, a mental health skilled nursing facility, the Emerald Lake sewer and other district and agency programs.

Some substantial increases are the result of reappropriation of prior year amounts for on-going projects from the park and open space fund and the engineering road fund totaling $2.8 million.

Also, the budget includes a total of $6.8 million for pay increases and benefits granted to county employes.

Tarshes noted that his proposed budget calls for a net reduction of 91.2 budgeted positions. (A budgeted position is the annual cost of a single employe position, although it may be filled by one or more persons on a part-time basis.)

Also, the county manager said, the "policy items" involve a total of 113 existing positions and 17 requested new positions.

Tarshes stated that in preparing the budget he and department heads have "given careful attention" to the board's directive that "to the greatest extent possible workload increases should be absorbed without staff increases."

Tarshes said that the more than $9.5 million required from increased property taxes would require a higher tax rate even with a substantial raise in assessed valuation, and was not unexpected.

It is almost entirely caused by reductions in important financing resources not directly related to department operations as he forecasted in his March 31 and subsequent reports to the board, Tarshes said.

The most significant causes of the increased tax levy is the drop in the fund balance resulting from the 25-cent tax rate decrease of last year. The fund balance for the end of the 1975-76 fiscal year is estimated at $6.4 million, as compared to a fund balance of $13.2 million at the end of the prior fiscal year.

Tarshes said that county taxpayers are "in a sense" paying for the tax rate reduction.

He also noted that there has been a "substantial increase" required in cash payments by the county to the state for the Medi-Cal program.

The reduction of nearly $1.8 million in non-departmental revenue (revenue which is not directly related to the operations of any county department) is the net result of a loss of $3.4 million in interest earnings, but offset to some extent by increases of $929,390 in motor vehicle in-lieu payments and $279,000 in sales tax receipts, along with smaller increases in other revenue accounts, such as the cigarette tax.

Tarshes said the decrease in interest earnings is attributable to higher allocations to school districts, special districts and other agencies as the result of a legal opinion of the State Attorney General's Office which decreed that such districts and agencies are entitled to a share of the interest from funds invested by the county on their behalf, as well as a general reduction in interest rates by comparison with 1974-75.

The county manager said that the financing of the proposed budget is aided somewhat by two significant recommendations — the elimination of the $250,000 general reserve and the utilization of $646,000 which has accumulated over a period of years in the special public health fund.

The general reserve, he noted, was established several years ago to provide cash for "dry period financing," but is no longer a significant amount for that purpose.

The public health fund also dates back many years, Tarshes said. Its original purpose was to provide a financing source for public health capital improvements, but any needs of this type are now being handled in the same manner as for other county activities.

Tarshes is recommending that the $6,773,966 in anticipated federal revenue sharing funds be used to finance community based social service programs ($700,000), the Economic Opportunity Commission ($135,000), decentralized health care ($1,689,429), the Assessor's Office operating budget ($2,998,603), the Parks and Recreation Department operating budget ($1,117,996) and in construction of the Linda Mar branch library ($132,940).

New National Cemetery Due

This country's first new national cemetery in more than 25 years will be developed next month on 750 acres of March Air Force Base near Riverside.

Richard L. Roudebush, administrator of veterans affairs for the San Francisco region, said the new cemetery will be the first to open since one at Fort Logan in Denver in 1950.

The March Air Force Base grounds will provide 390,000 grave sites.

With more than 3.2 million veterans in the state, he said, the Veterans Administration felt it necessary to open a new cemetery. Four other national cemeteries in California, including Golden Gate National at San Bruno, have been closed to new burials, some of them for years.

Other National Cemeteries in California include one at the Presidio of San Francisco and the huge Sawtelle Cemetery at Los Angeles.

Roudebush said the new cemetery at Riverside would not be ready for use until 1978.

First contract for construction work has been let, however, and a site dedication has been held.

Following preliminary site work under the present contract, the first of eight construction phases is to begin in February.

Development of those 90 acres, Roudebush said, is to include an administration building, a service building, interment shelters and a main gate, with a total estimated cost of perhaps $4.4 million.

Arrested in Basement

An apparent burglar crouched inside the basement of a Daly City grocery store was arrested by police early Saturday morning.

Police said an anonymous citizen called them at 1:25 a.m. to report a burglary in progress at B & G Market at 584 Hillside Blvd.

When four officers arrived, two of them covered the back entrance and two the front. The two in the front found the door to a small opening for loading stock in the basement had been pried off.

Police then spotted a suspect crouched inside. Next to him were a crowbar and items of merchandise that he had stacked up, according to police.

Charged with commercial burglary was James R. Chavez, 31, of 56 Bismarck St., Daly City.

Grace McCarthy Wins New Post

Former Pacifica Councilwoman Grace McCarthy, who vacated her seat on the City Council at the last election, has returned to public life.

The 12-year council veteran has been re-appointed to the Central Coast Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission.

Mrs. McCarthy was an original member of the commission at its formation in 1973.

Her appointment by Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, brings the total number of coastal commissioners to 14. There are two vacancies which are to be filled by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Brown has made no appointments to the commission since his election.

Mrs. McCarthy's tenure on the commission may be short-lived, however.

Under the language of Proposition 20, which created the commission in 1972, the agency's mandate to operate expires in December, unless legislation extending the commission's life is passed by the legislature.

A bill by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, which would have made the coastal commission a permanent government agency, died in committeee last month.

Mrs. McCarthy and the Assembly Speaker are not related.

HYATT LAKE TAHOE, at Incline Village, Nevada, has come up with a super entertainment package that is bound to be a crowd attraction. JOHN REGIS, nationally known comedy star, will share the spotlight with the many name entertainers during their engagements. FREDDIE MARTIN tops the show July 9 and 10; HARRY JAMES, July 23 and 24, winding up with STAN KENTON, August 6. Note the Hyatt Lake Tahoe advertisement and mail in your request for tickets now . . . Sunday brunch tip: Try the "Coyote Point" as prepared by the chefs at THE CASTAWAY. This special consists of tiny California shrimp served on French bread and garnished with avocado . . . No lull in the dine-out scene at NICK GUST'S three Rockaway Beach restaurants, THE MOONRAKER, NICK'S and CAPTAIN CHARLES, during the recent heat wave. Patrons of these popular restaurants enjoyed the cool breeze off the Pacific Ocean, which is just a stone's throw from the entrances . . . DOUG CARTER is the general manager of VIP'S, located on Highway 80 just this side of Auburn. This is a popular rest and food stop for travelers driving to and from the Reno area. And there is always a generous supply of casino refund packages on hand . . . The new look has officially arrived at the SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET. Wall-to-wall carpeting and a casino filled with new machines await your visit. Friendly restaurant service and a comfortable dining room. The sister club, BARNEY'S, has already received its new look and well rates the many customers raves. Barney's and South Tahoe Nugget operations are under the direction of ELIZABETH CHARTRAND and ROBERT BERRY . . . VINCE RUSSO, who owns THE EGGPLANT, in Burlingame, and THE DISTILLERY, in San Bruno, was spotted in Reno last weekend. He took a few days away from his bustling businesses to participate in the annual golf tournament sponsored by John Ascuaga's Nugget, Sparks, Nevada . . . It was pizza variety and Italian specialties that drew the big holiday crowds to ROMANO'S Italian restaurant over the weekend. Besides being sought out by countless Bay Area diners, this Rockaway Beach restaurant is a regular rendezvous for the localites.

CELEBRITIES CHAT

Free lance Roller Derby skater Ann Calvello, who was on the original team of the San Francisco Bay Bombers when the team was formed in 1954, chats with her long-time friend Mel Cicero, co-owner of the Bayhill Lounge, in San Bruno, during one of her frequent Bay Area visits.

New Restaurant Service at Pantry

THE PANTRY, located at 3799 El Camino in San Mateo, is expanding in all directions. Donuts have always been one of the main attractions. But since popular JOE VISCO started making "dough" here, he has added Giant Hamburgers, which were an immediate hit, and introduced a special Ham 'n Egg breakfast (served from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.). RANDY WING is the chef. CAROLE and ALEXIS are the ladies-in-waiting. With a seating capacity for 20 persons, The Pantry never lacks for customers. Credit Joe and ROY VISCO for this successful operation . . . Taste tip: Prime ribs of beef served any way you like it at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S, in Redwood City. Once you've tried it you will be a steady customer . . . A seafood treat at VINCE'S ITALIAN AND SEAFOOD restaurant: Long Island Oysters on the Half Shell. Always in season, always choice and plump . . . A best bet for luncheon on hot summer days are the fresh tropical fruit salads at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden restaurant, in San Francisco. A mountain of tropical fruits including papayas and mangoes . . . LARRY BLACK is an extraordinary entertainer who seems to find a "home" wherever he is performing. Black is practically a permanent fixture in the lounge of the HOLIDAY INN, South San Francisco, where he has been appearing for the past several months . . . PHIL LEHR'S unique Pay-By-The-Ounce method of steak service in the STEAKERY at the bottom of the San Francisco Hilton Tower (Taylor and Ellis entrance) rates equal praise from big eaters and dieters. Steaks are cut to order — any size — and the weight determines the price of the complete dinner . . . Hats off and an "ole" to the LA PINATA Mexican restaurant for allowing menu substitutions. Owner CHRIS VLASSIS believes his customers are entitled to complement a meal according to their appetite . . . Now appearing at FINOCCHIO'S are the fabulous EVETTES, who dance and sing several routines during each of the four nightly shows (closed Mondays). The snappy red and gold costumes, high kicks and great foot work in their "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" production are sure crowd pleasers.

No Parole For Young Slayer

Public pressure has led the California Youth Authority Board to reverse an earlier decision paroling 13-year-old Sharon Nicolini of Pacifica, convicted of murder.

Miss Nicolini was convicted in April for her part in the kidnap-murder of a South San Francisco nurse, Mildred Koetz, in February.

She was sent to the Ventura youth authority facilities and was ordered paroled to a foster home a month later by a two-member CYA panel.

That decision was seriously questioned by South San Francisco Police Chief James Datzman and eventually Assemblyman Louis Papan, D-San Mateo County, also became involved.

"This appeared to be a first to the best of my knowledge," Datzman said. He could not recall any instance in which the CYA reversed a parole decision after public protests were issued.

Datzman had written CYA Director Allen Breed that neighbors, friends and relatives of the victim, Mrs. Koetz, wanted to know why the CYA had paroled Miss Nicolini to a public setting.

"I would like to think that the decision in this case can be attributed to some type of administrative oversight rather than posing an example of our 'juvenile justice system in action'," Datzman said.

Breed agreed to review the matter saying that only a three-member panel — not two members as had occurred — could make such a finding.

The new panel overruled the original board's parole decision.

Datzman said that he would expect Miss Nicolini to remain in the Ventura facility for three years as a result.

However, her attorney, Jan Saalfield has indicated she will appeal the second decision on the grounds that new evidence must be introduced to reverse a parole.

She also claims the two-member panel is not a violation of CYA policy.

Miss Nicolini and a companion, 19-year-old Mark Ray, forced Mrs. Koetz into the trunk of her own car at the Winston Manor Shopping Center on Feb. 19, according to police.

The two drove just past Willits in Mendocino County where they walked Mrs. Koetz into some bushes, told her to lie down and shot her in the back of the head, police have said.

Victim of Ax Attack Back on Job

The victim of an ax attack in Burlingame May 26 is recovering on the job.

Thomas McDonald, 41, was slashed about the hands and head by a man brandishing an ax on the grounds of McDonald's company, Woodside Industries.

He is vice president of the firm.

McDonald suffered extensive damage to both hands and a fractured skull.

"I have only limited motion in my left hand today and no motion at all in my right. The doctor won't give me a prognosis, he said."

McDonald's skull fracture was a slight one. He has recovered from that.

But his hands are another story.

He says he has a full-time nurse with him on the job at 330 Beach Road so he can conduct his business.

Woodside Industries makes furniture kits.

McDonald was assaulted in his office, allegedly by a man who had recently been fired.

The man took an ax from under a jacket and began hacking away at McDonald, severing tendons in both wrists and inflicting deep gashes in his arms, hands, wrists and head. Both wrists were fractured.

The suspect is James McPherson, 31, of San Mateo. He was apprehended several weeks ago.

In court Wednesday, McPherson was held answerable in Superior Court on two charges: assault with a deadly weapon and attempted murder.

The preliminary hearing was held in Central District Municipal Court in San Mateo. Judge Thomas B. Caldwell presided.

Bail has been set on McPherson at $100,000. His attorney is Dick Bennett of San Mateo.

McPherson's case will next come up in San Mateo County Superior Court in Redwood City at 9 a.m. July 16.

Weekend BART Runs To Daly City Delayed

The BART Board of Directors June 24 formally adopted without dissent an operating budget of approximately $77.1 million for the fiscal year 1976/77.

In adopting the budget, the BART board cut about $8.6 million from the proposed tentative budget, and effectively reduced an estimated unfunded deficit from $14.2 million to $6.1 million. These figures are approximate, as the precise impact of the Board's actions will take several days to calculate.

Some of the reductions were directly related to a board decision to postpone the expansion of service extensions, such as weekends and direct Daly City-Richmond service for an indefinite period.

Specifically, approximately $4.7 million provided for the service expansion was eliminated; but $1 million was retained in the budget in the eventuality that developments later in the fiscal year would make additional service feasible.

"By keeping the $1 million in next year's budget, we are able to stay flexible in our service expansion options," stated BART Board President Elmer B. Cooper.

"Additionally, but not totally eliminating money for expansion, we are telling the public that we still hope to initiate weekend and Richmond-Daly City direct service within the coming fiscal year. We intend to continue our efforts in both the technical and legislative areas to provide this service as quickly as possible."

Cooper's allusion to legislative action is in reference to a bill (A.B. 3785) that recently passed the Assembly that, while providing extension of the present half-cent sales tax to fund BART operations, intends that any expansion of service levels should not be implemented unless revenues from such expansion would exceed their "fully allocated costs of such expansion."

Another budget cut was an estimated $1.7 million general salary savings through turn-over, vacancies and a slower hiring rate than anticipated in the tentative budget.

Reductions in budgeted travel expenses, consulting fees, minor capital improvements, and numerous other areas also contributed to the total reductions.

IN ALASKA

Coast Guard Electrician's Mate Third Class Cecil J. Marmont III, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil J. Marmont of 909 Golden Gate, Half Moon Bay, has returned to Homer, Alaska, after a three-week patrol as a crewmember of the Coast Guard Cutter Sedge.

During the patrol, his cutter conducted surveillance operations with Coast Guard aircraft to enforce international treaties and U.S. laws concerning fishing in U.S. territorial waters.

Samuel Chandler

By SAMUEL C. CHANDLER

"Rebellion to Tyrants is Obedience to God."

Shortly after the Declaration of Independence was presented to the Continental Congress, Benjamin Franklin asked a special committee to adopt these words as the slogan of the United States of America. Although the statement was not adopted, Thomas Jefferson took it for his own motto and had it cut on his private seal.

This information is found in a remarkable book by Linwood M. Day of the San Mateo Times. The Constitutional Conservative is dedicated to the proposition that the principles of the American Constitution never die. "Age perfects the understanding of them, and thus renews and enriches their vitality."

Because the word "conservative" has so many connotations, its use in the title of Day's book is unfortunate. For him "conservative" means to presume and to maintain. He does not use it to represent a kind of political thinking.

Thus his book is a call to Americans to consider the principles of Constitution in a time when such words as "conservative," "liberal," "moderate," "middle-of-the-road," "center," "left-wing," "right-wing," and "far left" and "far right" make a bedlam, "even the anarchists think in economic terms."

For Linwood Day, the constitutional conservative is interested primarily in the "continuing development of the philosophy of freedom." Day writes of the compact of law and of the fear of one individual diminishing the freedom of others.

While he admits that the precepts of the Constitution were "established by the liberals of their time," he warns against philosophies that do not support free enterprise, investment, fiscal responsibility and minimal governmental regulation.

He see dangers for the United States in so-called liberal leaders being lured to think foreign idealogies are allies in the liberal's fight against "privilege." Such a fear certainly puts Mr. Day in the camp of political conservative.

The various chapters of The Constitutional Conservative discuss such topics as law and order, peace, youth, economics, the press, education and ecology.

He discusses each with the thought in mind that the concern of Americans for each other and for all mankind reappears again and again in American life and dominates "every major decision this nation has taken, save those forced upon it by circumstances, or by ruling leaders or cliques who chose to ignore the general wishes of the populace."

Linwood Day has little affinity with the flaming liberal, but he is not a hide-bound conservative either. His book is good reading for Americans of the Bicentennial period. Surely there is a need in this country for reconsidering the principales that were established for the government of America by its founders.

Day has spent a lifetime in journalism. He has interviewed many of the leaders of the land. Similarly, he has been on the scene of events that have shaped the last two decades. Presently he writes for the San Mateo Times. As such he makes a contribution to California and the nation.

Both classes will utilize Exploratorium labs and include many field trips.

Teenagers and adults can take advantage of classes in "Animal World" and "Letterpress Printing." The "Animal World" class will include experiments with animal sense organs from specimens found in the museum's marine aquarium. There will also be field trips.

"Letterpress Printing" will center around the museum's recently acquired 64-year-old printing press, which includes a choice of 30 faces of hand-set type.

The classes will take place between July 20 and 29th. Registration deadline is July 16.

Fifty Plus Club Traveling in October

By LOUANN HEATH

Edna Laurel Calhan, tour chairwoman of the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica, reports that everyone who is planning on joining the club cruise tour to the Hawaiian Islands should get a check in the amount of $400 in the mail immediately to ensure space.

The 18-day, four-island cruise to Oahu, Hawaii, Maui and Kauai, begins Oct. 12 when the cruise ship, S.S. Mariposa, sails from San Francisco. The ship has scheduled stops at Los Angeles, Honolulu, Hilo, Kahului, Nawiliwili and Honolulu. Full price for the journey is $2,410.

Mrs. Oalhan is scheduling this tour to include such things as bridge lessons, art classes and tour excursions on each island. All these extras will be available for an extra fee. Such extras may be figured into the price of the ticket or may be added at any time during the trip, Mrs. Calhan explained. For more information about mailing your down payment, call Elizabeth Funderburg. The total price of the ticket will be due and payable on Aug. 23.

While this tour is planned and arranged by the Fifty Plus Club, prospective members and friends of members who might be interested are invited to call and find out about the possibility of joining in the fun.

JULY 18 IS THE BIG DAY for members of Friends Outside. More than 40 counselors have been at Mt. Cross Retreat Grounds for several days, familiarizing themselves with the area and the facilities so that they can be ready to welcome the Friends Outside families who will be arriving on July 18 for a week of camping under the stars and singing around campfires.

THE BIG ROCK AND GEM Show at the Cow Palace this past weekend drew a number of Auburn residents to this area. The contingent, headed by Mrs. Aubrey C. Spark, visited the displays at the Cow Palace, dined at Nick's Rockaway and were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morford of Daly City.

RETURNING THIS WEEK from a three-week tour of Europe is Mrs. John Madrosen of Westlake. Mrs. Madrosen and her cousin spent several days scouting fishing sites for Mr. Madrosen who hopes to take a sportsman's tour of Great Britain within the next few months.

Leisure Revolution in Full Swing At Daly City Playgrounds, Parks

Leisure Revolution, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, is in full swing at the 18 playgrounds and parks which are located throughout the community.

All programs are designed for boys and girls seven years of age and older. Refer to summer recreation booklets for complete schedules.

At F. D. Roosevelt, leader David Ewaldt reports that an "Olympic" trial was held at F.D.R. playground. The event consisted of six grueling, grudge relays.

Lisa Williams walked off with the title, with Bernedette Cordoba, Ricky Gibson and Ken Fitzgerald narrowing the gap. It was made up of two relay teams, each with four members.

It was mainly individual efforts, as each runner picked the person he or she was going up against.

Lisa ran undefeated, with Bernadette Bernedette once, and Ricky and Ken dropped only two matches each. They all have vowed to return.

At Northridge, Mike Scott, leader reports the first week's activities included an exciting basketball game, starring Robert and Roger Zapata, Ray Moyle, and Steve and Earl Soto, Richard and Arthur Capablas. The big staring star of the day was Roger Zapata.

Big Caroom stars were Joseph Slangsuns, Melvin Sears. Some of the girls play basketball, well enough to challenge the boys. They are Lynn Lydell, Robin Lydell, Kathy Moyle, Latreuse Wash, Susan Moyle, Anne Culber, Joyce Jenkins.

Whiffle ball has been a popular sun activity. Outstanding players were Steve and Earl Soto, Roger and Robert Zapata, Ray Moyle and Arthur Catablas. Girls whiffle ball star is Carol Toothaker.

Paul and Ray Braun, Eddie Chod, Patti and Mari Render and Mark Herman, participated in all games and had a good time. Football hero Danny Welch was named "butterfingers" of the week.

At Serramonte High School Gym, under the leadership of Tom Nuris, the first week ended on a high note with Caroom and ping-pong champions being determined after heated competition.

Tops in the 10-and-under Carooms contest was Jon Pult followed by Mike Nightingale in second with Stephen Siriani taking third.

In ping-pong it was Mike Nightengale clinching first with Julie Rosenthal in second followed by Martin Galindez in third. In the 11-12 year-old division, John Mignosa was Carroms champ with Nick Cloling in second followed by Jon Mardieres in third. Nick Cioling took first place honors in ping-pong followed by Jon Mardieres and John Mignosea in second and third places respectively.

In the 13-and-over division, Wayne Wynn captured dual honors as he took first place in both ping-pong carroms.

Likewise Robert Caliz secured second in both sports while Steve Nelson took third in Carroms and Steve Beverly settled for third in ping-pong.

All titles are on the line again next Friday at 1 p.m. Hot dogs were devoured at the weekly barbecue held 12:30 p.m. every Friday. All are welcome, and asked to bring one's own food for working together.

Summer Softball will soon be getting underway and we are still taking sign-ups for the high school and junior high teams. If you are going into sixth grade or have just graduated from high school, come and join.

Other activities that are played at the gym on a daily basis are basketball, strike out, warball, carroms, ping-pong and much more.

Morning fitness and sports clinic activities start at 10:15 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Activities include fitness skills, track and field work and intramural sports.

Presently soccer is being played along with supplemental drill instruction and youngsters ranging from fourth to eighth grades are encouraged to sign up.

At Westlake Park, the Westlake Community Center started its floor hockey program off with a high scoring scrimmage which ended 7-5. Some of the skating stars were Teresa Abrahamsohn, Mike Weiner, Marty Lager, John Soldati, Paul Abrahamsohn, Kevin Owens and Mike Abrahamsohn. All those interested in becoming a participant in a league, complete with sticks, pucks and netted goals, may contact the leaders at the Westlake Community Center and Westlake Park or just show up every Monday morning at 10 a.m.

The weekly Friday barbecue had hamburgers, hot dogs and potatoes sizzling on the grill. Participants are encouraged to bring food for noon barbecue, the staff will provide free drinks. Other weekly events on the Westlake Park schedule are: Tuesday, Trip Day; Wednesday, Movie at 10:30 a.m., 10 cents; Thursday, Arts & Crafts at 2:30 p.m., 10 cents; and Friday, Cartoons at 3 p.m.

Broadmoor Service

Early American music will be emphasized at this Sunday's 10 a.m. worship service at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 - 87th St., Daly City.

The anthem will be "Westerham Tune" written by W. Tonsen who wrote it in 1754. Another anthem of like vintage will also be sung.

A duet will be presented by Polly Marshall and Ken Gillespie. The introit is "Worcester" by Abe Wood written in 1790. The benediction sung is from "Blessing" by Sam Stanley written in 1799.

The pastor, Herbert Tweedie, will preach on the subject "We're All in the Same Boat" from the story of Noah. Sunday School during the worship service, with pupils taking part in the service the first 15 minutes.

Vows Are Recited

St. Charles Church in San Francisco was the setting for the recent marriage of Gail Spry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Spry and Peter Knadler, son of Roy Knadler.

The couple greeted guests at a reception at the Elk's Club in South San Francisco before departing on a wedding trip to Las Vegas. They are at home in Colma.

The bride wore a gown and veil created by her sister, Peggy Hayes, who served as her honor attendant. Timmy Knadler was his brother's best man.

Gail was graduated from South San Francisco High School. Her husband, who was graduated from Sacred Heart High School in San Francisco, is also the brother of Richard and Robert Knadler.

Golden Wedding Marked

Mater Dolorosa Church in South San Francisco was the setting earlier this month for the dinner reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Bob DeDominic of Guerneville on their golden wedding anniversary.

The guests of honor, who started the celebration with Mass, are the parents of Marie Peterson of South San Francisco, Bob DeDominic of Woodside, Kaye Whittington of San Carlos and Rosella Brady of San Francisco. They have 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A hundred guests gathered for the affair including the Rev. Charles Sinatra, SVD, of Riverside who performed the ceremony; Mary Marquis of Greensburg, Pa., the guest of honor's sister, and Catherine Schulte of San Jose, who was the maid of honor in her sister's wedding. Also present were the John Sinatras of Chula Vista.

Bob DeDominic is retired from the US Mint in San Francisco and his wife, Nickie, is a retired employe of the Emporium.

Boating Expert To Speak

Ever since the movie "Deliverance" and the 1972 Olympics, interest in river running has been on the increase.

For one of life's great adventures and for unbeatable thrills it is hard to beat the sport of whitewater.

The Pacifica Library is featuring Reg Lake, Brisbane resident and owner of a Kayak-Raft shop also in Brisbane, as guest speaker in a program of films and general discussion. The films will show actual runs he has done.

Reg Lake has done some 40 rivers in California including the extremely difficult Touloumne River. His major out-of-state run was as a member of a raft party through the Grand Canyon.

While whitewater is considered a dangerous sport requiring total concentration, rivers are graded by the difficulty of navigating them so novices can start with the tamest rivers and use the services of an outfitter who may provide a crew and guide as well as the equipment.

The sport is suited to the young as well as the adult. One can paddle alone in a single kayak or travel in the company of 20 on a large raft.

The sport requires that you work with the river, that you honor the immutable law of the river, and that you learn to read it — rapidly.

Nonetheless, spills are common with each run producing another soak. Young navigators love this automatically cooling off on warm days.

Anyone wishing to read about the sport is advised to borrow from the library former U.S. Olympic coach Jay Evan's "Kayaking: The New Whitewater Sport for Everybody" and Sunset magazine (April 1975) and Fortune (June 1975).

The July 13, 7:30 p.m. library program is free and recommended for all ages.

Annapolis Home For Newlyweds

Motoring across the country to their first home in Annapolis, Md., are Ensign Stephen Michael Soules, USN, and his bride, the former Kathleen Moakler.

The couple was married Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at St. Veronica's Catholic Church in South San Francisco. The Rev. Joseph Gordon performed the rites which were followed by a reception at the Presidio Officers' Club.

The new Mrs. Soules is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moakler of South San Francisco. An alumna of Mercy High School, she received her bachelor's degree in English from San Jose State.

Stephen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Soules of South San Francisco, was graduated from Serra High School and the US Naval Academy at Annapolis where he received his bachelor of science degree. A commissioned officer, he is a member of the All American La Crosse Team.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white Qiana dress with long sleeves and a Mandarin collar with seed pearls and lace. White baby roses, stephanotis and baby's breath were arranged in her old-fashioned bouquet.

Pat Duhamel, the matron of honor for her sister, wore a soft peach knit dress with short bell sleeves and a brimmed, peach-colored hat. She carried a bouquet of peach roses, stephanotis, yellow spider chrysanthemums and baby's breath. The other attendants wore peach jersey costumes and carried identical bouquets.

Marcia Wiggans and Jennifer Raffetto, who also are sisters of the bride, shared secondary attendants' duties with Pam Kelly, Leslie Benjamin, Debbie Quiram and Diane Soules, sister of the bridegroom.

Deanna Duhamel was the flower girl for her aunt's wedding. She wore a peach frock and carried a basket of peach roses and other summer flowers.

Bob Bragg performed best man duties, and guests were seated by Tom Raffetto, brother of the bride; John Duhamel, the bride's brother-in-law; Nick Armanino and Brian Kelly; and Rick Montafi and Gary Soules, the bridegroom's cousins. Teddy Moakler, another brother of the bride, carried the rings.

Kathleen is also the sister of Nancy and Cathy Raffetto.

Exhibit of Underwater Photos at Periwinkle

A special exhibit of underwater photography is being held at Periwinkle Art Gallery, Pedro Point, Pacifica through July 25.

Eight members of the San Francisco Hammerheads Skin and Scuba Diving Club are exhibiting their finest photographs.

The club is composed of novice and experienced divers who travel to tropical areas to dive in the clear, warm water. When conditions are favorable, the club dives at Shelter Cove in Pacifica.

San Francisco resident Arnold Champagne has over 15 years diving experience. Trained in the Navy, he is one of only nine persons in the U.S. able to service highly technical computer equipment for the U.S. government.

Troy Culiver, an accomplished land photographer and diver recently began underwater filming. He is an adjuster for a salvage company.

Richmond resident Paul Hirsh has photographed the Monterey area and Channel Islands. He works for the telephone company.

Janice Holsbo lives aboard a cabin cruiser in Alameda. She has 12 years diving experience and has filmed underwater movies for several years.

Pacifica resident Sue Maesen teaches fourth grade at Sharp Park School, Pacifica. She has been involved in underwater photography for six years.

Frank Maesen is a NAUI diving instructor. Three times he has received the "Best of Show" award from the Underwater Photographic Society Film Festival. Maesen is a graphic designer doing interiors for markets and restaurants.

Ron Perotti has been diving for eight years in Baja, Kona, Hawaii and in Holland. He is an engineer for the telephone company.

Another diver with 12 years experience is Roy Pulsipher. He has made underwater movies for many years. He is an optician for Bausch and Lomb.

PRIZE WINNER

This float, featuring a replica of the Liberty Bell and guarded by modern-day Minutemen Mark Vidosh and Sean White, won a prize in the Daly City Bicentennial Parade held June 13. The prize was first place in the Best Bicentennial Theme Float ($125) category. The float, made by Our Lady of Mercy Parish, won second place in the Commercial Float Trophy category, as well. The Liberty Bell has since been placed in the altar area of Our Lady of Mercy Parish.

Le Pacini

If you are a long-time Yankee fan, as I am, you should read, "The Greatest of All — The 1927 Yankees," By John Mosedale, which is out in paperback.

As you know, that particular team has been called the greatest baseball team of all time by enough baseball experts to make you believe it, and Mosedale's chronological account of how they rolled over opponents to win 110 games in a 154-game season, their nearest opponent 19 games off the pace, does nothing to make the reader doubt all of the claims.

The records that team hung in the books are astonishing (Ruth's 60 homers, Gehrig's 175 RBI, etc.), but the bits of esoterica, new information and recall of long forgotten things is really what sent this old Yankee buff to the typewriter. Examples:

In his THIRD year as a full-time outfielder, Ruth already held the lifetime record for homeruns . . . Ruth had a business manager acting as his agent (sound awfully contemporary?), and besides his then astounding baseball contract of $70,000 yearly for three years, in 1926 Ruth had made $20,000 from World Series and exhibition games, $65,000 from vaudeville, $75,000 for making a movie and $10,000 for syndicated newspaper articles. (Nobody knew what he made from his various commercial endorsements.)

The year Jimmy Foxx had his 58 homers, two were wiped off the books by rain-outs. He would, of course, have tied Ruth's then "impossible" record . . .

As a rookie, Gehrig was so financially strapped because of having to take care of his mother's considerable medical bills, that he once walked the streets of New York looking for a job as a part-time soda jerk between games. Yankee management was so appalled that they gave Gehrig an advance on his salary.

Strange as it seems, the Yankees were beset by injuries that great year; Bob Meusel, Joe Dugan and Tony Lazzeri were all out from time to time.

Regular catcher Benny Bengough was laid up for more than half the season. Mark Koenig was out for nearly a month, and Earl Combs also had his share of miseries.

When Ruth played ball for the now famous St. Mary's Industrial School for Boys in Baltimore, he was a catcher . . . and he derived that famous mincing gait of his from his legendary surrogate father, Brother Matthius.

As for real trivia, can you name the pitcher off whom Ruth hit his 59th homer, the one which tied his own then-existing record? It was a rookie with Washington, Paul Hopkins.

And if you think that Ruth became "legendary" only with the passing of time, you re wrong. He was virtually a mythical figure even as a young man. Some example quotes from contemporary newspapers:

"I have no boudoir secrets . . . beyond the fact that, in that particular aspect of marriage, I envy no woman in the world." (Mrs. Babe Ruth)

"The Babe is a superman . . . " (Arthur P. McGovern)

"Some 20 years ago, I stopped talking about the Babe for the simple reason that I realized that those who had never seen him didn't believe me." (Tommy Holmes)

"To understand him, you had to understand this: he wasn't human. No human could have done the things he did and lived the way he lived and been a ballplayer . . . there was never anyone like him. He was a god." (Joe Dugan)

AS WE WROTE A WEEK AGO so many things are happening so fast in basball that a fresh comment this week may seem trite a week from now, but I don't think this will change.

Charley Finley is right, and I say that with full knowledge that I have often written of my disapproval of Finley. But in the case of the "sale" of Blue, Rudi and Fingers, he has followed all baseball and civil laws, and I think that Bowie Kuhn is now more of a menace to baseball than Finley, because Finley can only screw up Oakland, while Kuhn has the ability to screw up 24 teams.

With all of the naming of precedents for such sales, we are surprised that, to our knowledge, no mention has been made of perhaps the most blatant example of the "sin" of straight sales of all time — the 1945 sale of pitcher Hank Borowy by the Yankees to the Cubs.

By mid-season of that year, Borowy had a 10-5 record for a slugging Yankee club that was short of pitching. Suddenly, the Yankees somehow got Borowy through waivers and sold him for a straight $97,000 to the Cubs, who were in the middle of a pennant race. The strong armed right-hander went on to an 11-2 record for the Cubs (becoming the only pitcher in history with a total of 20 wins for two different teams in one season), who won the pennant by just three games over the Cardinals.

Borowy went on to work four games in the World Series against Detroit, almost single-handedly holding back Detroit's eventual win in seven games. The Yankees finished fourth, only 6½ games out of first.

That whole deal smacked of political (baseball style) hanky-panky. It went back to 1941, when Larry McPhail was boss of the Dodgers, and they found themselves in pennant contentin without a solid second baseman.

McPhail somehow managed to buy Hall-of-Famer Billy Herman from the Cubs, and though Herman was past his prime, he pulled the shaky Dodger infield together and they won a pennant.

Now it is 1945 and McPhail is boss of the Yankees. The story goes that he called Cub General Manager James Gallagher — who had sold Herman to McPhail — out of a clear blue sky and asks Gallagher if he could use Borowy and what would he pay for him.

Gallagher, the story goes further, asks McPhail how in the world a pitcher of Borowy's quality would clear waivers in July, and McPhail tells Gallagher, surprise, that he's already obtained waivers on Borowy, and well, the Yankees are really desperate for cash . . . yeh, sure.

Actually, I wouldn't be surprised if that whole action by Finley was a plot to prove the veracity of a 22-man roster. Playing three men short, the A's won seven of 11 games. Paul Richards said recently that the designated hitter rule really eliminates the need for a couple of pinch-hitters he might ordinarily use, and an extra pitcher who would be going in to relieve for that starting pitcher who might have been hurling a good game but had to exit for a pinch hitter.

Actually, Oakland got by well for a couple of weeks with an eight-man pitching staff which included not one star chucker.

Could this all be a vast plot by the owners to show the feasibility of reducing playing rosters? It's been suggested much less subtly in the past and, of course, been knocked down by the players' association.

Say what you must about Finley, but never deny that if it weren't for him, baseball this year — already with runaway races in three of the four divisions — would be dull.

IT'S NOW OFFICIAL. The Giants have the worst fielding average in major league baseball. But, there's a bright side. Houston has made as many errors as the Giants, and the Twins have made more.

BIG SWING FOR THE FOURTH

Linda Moghannam of Millbrae spent part of her fourth with friends and a group of parents, sharpening up her mastery of the national past-time. No major leaguer ever showed deeper powers of concentration. Linda adopts a Tito Fuentes-style stance, watches the ball right to the end of the bat, and finishes with a decidedly enthusiastic follow-through.

Local Girl Tips Soviet Sprinters

It has been a year of considerable excitement for Millbrae Lions Track Club members who have been swept into the maelstrom of international competition.

Things get a little hectic in an Olympic year.

But the highlight thus far — and a milestone — was provided last weekend by a reserved, unflamboyant 16-year-old girl from Pacifica.

Elaine Parker, an Oceana High student, scored the only American women's victory on the first day of competition in the U.S.-Soviet junior track and field meet at the seaport city of Tallinn, Estonia.

Miss Parker flashed to a 100-meter win in 11.5 seconds.

Her win was one of the few ever scored by a County athlete in manjor amateur international competition.

The Soviet team eventually won the fifth meeting of the countries' junior teams 213½-163½, with a 90-54 lead in women's events.

Among the American stars was Michael Kee, 18, of Dorchester Mass. and Southern Illinois University, who won a special trophy at the end of the meet for his 10-second finish in the 100-meter dash.

Miss Parker joined the MLTC only a year and a half ago as the No. 3 sprinter on the team.

But with constant improvement, she became the top 100-yard dash sprinter last year, and this year took over top ranking in the 220 as well.

Marilyn King, the MLTC's entrant in the Olympic Games, was scheduled to finish her local workouts today at College of San Mateo before departing Tuesday for the U.S. training camp in New York.

The 27-year-old King, who qualified third in the pentathlon at the recent Olympic trials, ran into a hitch late last week — a very painful wisdom tooth that had to be extracted.

That put a crimp in training, but King is used to overcoming more serious obstacles than that—she underwent surgery early in 1972 and recovered in record time, quickly enough to train and qualify for the Munich Olympics (where she sustained yet another injury just prior to competition).

Dr. Harmon Brown of San Mateo, an MLTC coach who is also a member of the U.S. Olympic coaching staff, departed last weekend for the Games, which currently lie under a shadow because of Canada's defiance of the International Olympic Committee's ruling on the Taiwan entry.

The entire brouhaha caused a lot of head-shaking among local international track people, who felt that politics and the Olympic Games don't mix.

Inflation Turns Up At Peninsula Tourney

BY GARRY NIVER
Post Sports Writer

No matter how hard you try to beat it, inflation — the scourge of modern society — is just as evident at a volunteer-staffed junior tennis tournament as it is at Wimbledon.

The Peninsula Tennis Club in Burlingame has been putting on the United States Tennis Association's National Junior Hardcourt Championships for 29 years, and this year's price tag for the week-long event is easily the highest in history.

"We expect to take in about $8,000 in entry fees, admissions and concessions," pointed out Betty Cookson, who along with Glenn Stirm, Jr. is co-chairman of the event, "and we expect that income to just about cover our expenses. If there is any money left over after Sunday's final match, it will be used to send our juniors on the Pacific Northwest Junior Summer circuit."

But Betty isn't overly optimistic.

"For starters there are the portable grandstands which we must rent every year for the tourament. And then there are the tennis balls. We bought 180 dozen tennis balls from Wilson at $8 per dozen for the tournament," she noted. "That little item is $1,440."

The PTC also has to pay sanctioning fees for each entrant to the USTA and another fee (25 cents per junior per event) to the Northern California Tennis Association. Then there is a barbecue for the juniors and all out-of-town parents on Wednesday and a dance for the youngsters Thursday night.

Matt Lightbody, who heads the transportation department, points out that transportation costs have risen appreciably in the last couple of years.

"Peninsula Volkswagen lets us use a courtesy bus and we have another station wagon donated," said Lightbody. "But we have to hire two drivers per day at $25 each, plus the expense of gasoline."

Lightbody, who is retired, spends at least 14 hours a day on coordinating the transportation for the juniors. The PTC picks up the youngsters at the airport, transports them to the club, to their housing and to and from their matches at the outlying Peninsula Golf & Country Club, the San Mateo Elks Club, the Burlingame Country Club and San Mateo High School.

"We had 167 matches Monday, so you can see that the kids were pretty well spread around," noted Stirm.

And while the material costs have risen, Betty said that no price tag can be put on the volunteer help. "We have over 100 people working all week on this tournament, ranging from the nine-year-old ball persons to 85-year-old member Ursala Fottrell, who runs the admissions. The cost of this tournament would run into the tens of thousands if it weren't for the volunteers," offered Betty.

Take Stirm, for instance. He takes a week of his vacation time to help oversee the tournament. And his wife works right along side him at the tournament desk.

All of the officials — including Norm Brooks and Bruce Parsons — volunteer their time. Mrs. Herb Lauder gets up every morning about the same time the sun does and starts making sandwiches to sell at the snackbar. And Peggy Castle volunteers her time to manage the snackbar, which seems to be the hub of activity during the tournament.

"I think the tournament is what makes this club great," surmised Betty. "Oh, sure. A few complain about the work before the tournament. But once the tournament starts, everyone pitches in and its makes us a closer club.

"I really can't say what I get out of it except that it is great fun and I love the work. I guess the fact that so many champions — like Roscoe Tanner, Stan Smith, Rosie Casals, Billie Jean King, Jimmy Connors — have passed through the club makes you feel good. Just the other afternoon a woman stopped me in a shop in Burlingame and exclaimed that 'wasn't it great that OUR Roscoe Tanner' upset Jimmy Connors at Wimbledon. Come to find out, she had housed Tanner when he played in the junior hardcourts several years ago."

The PTC calls upon its club members and outside volunteers to house 250 youngsters for the week. And that cost isn't included in the tourney's bills.

On the local scene, Russ Caplan of Burlingame was outclassed by Texan Leland Putterman, 6-0, 6-0. Second-seeded Jai DiLoute of Texas became the first top-rated casualty when he was taken ill in England at last weekend's Junior Wimbledon Tournament and was forced to withdraw from the Burlingame event.

Millbrae Defeats Legion

Millbrae beat San Bruno American Legion 6-3 Sunday to win a Fourth of July baseball tournament at Terra Nova High in Pacifica.

Ralph Akchurin collected three hits and two RBI's, including a two-run triple, to lead Millbrae. Mark Beauvais and Kris Martinsen added two hits and two RBIs each.

In the third place game, Paul Lutich and Rich Bordi had two RBIs each to pace South San Francisco to a 10-6 victory over Lou's 66 of Pacifica.

Millbrae edged SSF 3-2 Saturday behind Dave Litwak's nine-strikeout four-hitter and a pair of hits and RBIs by Dean Asimos. San Bruno, keyed by Lenny Simi's two-run homer, nipped Lou's 4-3.

Simi, who had five total hits with three RBIs and played standout defense at third and short, was named the tourney MVP.

Eureka Wins Title Game

Eureka Federal Savings of San Mateo rallied late for a 9-7 comeback win Monday night over Palo Alto American Legion in the title game of a Fourth of July tournament at Baylands Park in Palo Alto.

Flying Goose of Daly City took third place with an 11-4 victory over Ravenswood of East Palo Alto.

Eureka scored seven runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to wipe out a 4-0 deficit. Brian Duffy's two-run single and Jeff Gummere's two-run triple were the key blows for Eureka, which had been held hitless through four.

Tigers Edge Out St. Thomas More

The Boys Baseball League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department is finishing up its season. In the 8th Grade Division, the PAL Tigers edged St. Thomas More in a real battle 12-11.

The Tigers were led by the hitting of Lester Quitzon who went three for five. Chris Amorose three for four and Phillip Rodriquez's triple.

The Tigers also defeated St. Andrew II 18-4, as Bob Trombino and Larry Quitzon led the way by pitching a fine game.

In the 5th Grade Eastern Division, the SAL Dumpers defeated OLM 10-0 as the pitching of Greg Muniz, Kevin Salaiz and Jim Manzssis kept the shutout intact.

OLPH outslugged St. Thomas More 28-13. John Velasquez hit a grand slam and Dave Bender a three-run homer for OLPH.

The BYA Wildcats defeated a determined Scotties team 6-3. Shawn Lewis had three hits and teammate Leonal Canepa had a perfect day going four for four. The Scotties received fine pitching from Bob Steinberg who struck out six of nine batters.

Filipino Net Takes Entries

Entries are now being accepted for the ninth annual Filipino Open Tennis Tournament, to be held July 17-18 and 24-25 at the Golden Gate Park Tennis Courts in San Francisco.

Rollie Zalameda, prep champion of The City, is favored to win the men's title. Those wishing to sign-up should contact Mina Velez, 2631 Fleetwood Drive, San Bruno, 94066.

We're Losing Industry to Southwest

By JANET REINKA

Weekdays in 1969, the 3,500 employes at GTE Lenkurt's plant in San Carlos had to fight each other for a parking space.

It was a stockholder's dream — demand for the company's complex microwave, multiplex, carrier and data transmission systems had expanded to the point where there literally wasn't enough room to put everybody.

Today, for the 2,350 employed at the San Carlos plant, parking is no problem. Where did the others go?

Like many companies in California over the last 15 years, Lenkurt succumbed to a more potent Southern charm than even Scarlet O'Hara possessed — an economic one.

Accordingly, in 1971, Lenkurt moved its manufacturing operations to Albuquerque, N.M., where 1,600 are now employed. The company figures that as a $10-$15 million loss in payroll to California since then.

"We had very little choice," said Fred C. Hill, the company's director of public affairs. "We have 40 competitors and almost none are in California. It was purely an economic consideration."

Hill says the company has no plans to move the rest of its operation out of the state, but he did not rule the possibility out.

"It would be an expensive decision. We would do it only if it became necessary."

Officials at Litton Industries in San Carlos have announced that the firm is building a branch in Tempe, Ariz. to manufacture vision goggles. There will be no reduction in staff at the local plant.

More and more, businesses like Lenkurt are complaining that California — for a variety of reasons — has a "poor business climate" and they are either pulling up stakes entirely or moving part of their operations out of state, especially to Texas, Arizona or Nevada.

They blame high taxes, unsympathetic legislation, and, in particular, high labor costs, for making it unprofitable to do business in California.

"It's not a new phenomenon," said Bill Hern of the Peninsula Manufacturers Association. "Fifteen years ago I talked about the increasing costs and prophesied that it would not be an attractive climate for manufacturers.

"I'm sorry to say that I was accurate. And I don't see anything that will stop it."

Like Hern, Hill of Lenkurt blames politicians for the exodus of Bay Area companies and the reluctance of new ones to move to the state.

"When you have supervisors making decisions with no regard for the economic impact," Hill said, "it makes it less feasible for business to operate."

When Lenkurt started shopping for new space, for example, it called on The Fantus Co., a consulting firm specializing in plant locations.

Fantus has issued a widely publicized ranking of the mainland states as to their business climate based on dozens of factors including freight and labor rates, legislative environment and others.

Fantus ranked California 47th, right behind — who else? — New York State.

On the issue of state taxes alone, Fantus projected Lenkurt's bill in New Mexico would be $63,300 versus $158,900 in California. In addition, Fantus predicted Lenkurt would save more than $250,000 through use of industrial revenue bonds.

Loading down the balance scale further were the facts that Albuquerque offers tax incentives for expansion, a good labor pool, no inventory tax, and a housing market more likely to attract the large number of engineers the company courts than does the Peninsula.

Ampex in Redwood City, on the other hand, says the most important reason why it has made additions over the last several years out of state and not in California is because of the company's structure.

"The Bay Area is primarily our coprorate headquarters," said President Arthur Hausman.

"We've had growth in Alabama ... and we do have a plant in Colorado Springs that has been growing. The total cost in the state of Colorado is less than in California. But it's the nature of our structure that has dictated where we have added."

Many businessmen, privately at least, blame the business climate in the Bay Area's traditionally well-organized labor force.

And labor spokesmen, on the other hand, say they have always been business' whipping boy and that business exaggerates its situation.

According to R. A. Smarden of the Industrial Employers and Distributors Association, since 1967, 70 Bay Area companies employing 1,700 employes have been forced to close down permanently or move because of labor costs.

The IDEA represents management in negotiations with various labor groups and recently negotiated the contract with the ILWU-IBT after the approximately 8,500 warehousemen in Northern California struck June 3.

The strike was settled June 29. Workers were granted $1.60 over a three-year period.

Throughout the strike the main source of disagreement was the cost-of-living formula. The union wanted it to be unlimited; management wanted it capped. The final agreement capped it at 25 cents.

"It's difficult to find any company who will look you right in the eye and admit it's because of high wage rates," said Smarden. "They fear something will happen later.

"And in the case of a company who will still have a plant in this area, I can see that they don't want to antagonize the unions."

According to Murray Parker of the San Francisco Employers Council, small companies could not afford to say yes and they could not afford to say no to the union's initial proposal.

"Two small companies that we represent signed the union's proposed contract (before the strike)," he said. "They absolutely had no choice. Financially they could not accept the alternative of the strike. I believe they will have to relocate as a result."

Parker listed a string of companies that have left the Bay Area in the last three or four years — Planters Peanuts in San Francisco, Arrow Shirts in Brisbane, Mirro Aluminum Co. in South San Francisco, and, also on the Peninsula, Philco Parts & Service and ITE Imperial, to name a few.

Hern of the PMA said Western Gear in San Carlos closed a few months ago, and Simplicity Patterns, Penn-Walt Dental Supply, and E. F. Hutton & Co., all have left South San Francisco. Labor costs were an important factor, he said.

But spokesmen at Cabot, Cabot & Forbes in South San Francisco and Crocker Industrial Park in Brisbane say their occupancy rates — in excess of 75 per cent and between 90 and 95 per cent respectively — are good. Both said they have been the beneficiaries of the exodus from San Francisco to the Peninsula.

Whether Smarden's and Parker's predictions that the new settlement will drive even more businesses out of the area remains to be seen.

Labor leaders, on the other hand, say they are flexible when negotiating with businesses who are on the edge of going under.

"I don't believe that most unions would consciously negotiate into the agreements wages and conditions that would put an employer out of business," said William Grami, director of the Warehouse and Miscellaneous Division of the Western Conference of Teamsters.

Grami said the union had, for example, reduced its demand by 30 cents an hour for the first year of the contract for a grocery company in Emeryville. Once the company recovered, he said the union then received the 30 cents.

Grami and many other labor leaders say wages are not the most significant factor in business decisions to move.

"We've had over the period of years firms going and coming for a variety of reasons," he said. "Firms from the state of Washington have moved into our area. Firms move because of the availability to markets and products."

And union leaders say their members have no more of a secret for keeping up with inflation than other workers.

"Our wage packages are very good, it's true," said Bob Sick, the business agent for Local 85, "but they're necessary to keep up with the high cost of living.

"The business community has found out that whatever they put up for sale, people will still buy it. All your simple things like sugar — people buy it. It's a continuous circle. The only real answer is that nobody really likes the spiral of wages and prices. If the government really decided to halt it, they would have to freeze wages and prices."

The union blames inflation on "th4 whole national policy," according to Dan Beagle, editor of the ILWU Dispatcher.

"There's a growing trend to blame the unions," he said. "We don't buy the argument that high wages cause inflation. Our position has been that the war did it, price fixing does it, monopolies do it. We're just trying to catch up. To blame it on the workers is like blaming a kid who gets hit."

"We've got some wild guys," said the president of one of the unions. "They want the moon. It isn't us officers who get us out on strike. It's the membership."

County's Assessed Value Increases Four Per Cent

The overall assessed valuation of San Mateo County property increased by 4.1 per cent for 1976-77 to a total of more than $3 billion, County Assessor Jack Estes reported today.

Although higher than the 2.5 per cent increase predicted earlier by Estes, the increase is only one-fourth of the 16.66 increase of last year.

Estes said the increase this year was higher than expected because of some $180 million in new construction.

The lower increase, a reverse of the trend in recent years, was because of a directive of the Board of Supervisors that residential property not be reviewed this year. Reappraisals were concentrated on commercial-industrial property which had not been reviewed since 1973.

However, Estes warned, residential property owners will be paying the piper next year. In residential areas which will be reviewed for the 1977-78 assessment roll, Estes is predicting a whopping increase of 30 to 40 per cent in assessed valuation.

Property taxes are levied on the basis of 25 per cent of the market value of the property.

Estes reported that the increase for the secured roll (property and structures) this year was 3.9 per cent. The unsecured roll (inventories, machinery, office equipment) was up 5.26 per cent, making the 4.1 per cent overall increase of $119,005,669.

Brisbane recorded the only decrease in assessed valuation — 60 per cent — due to the fact that the chemical firm of Van Waters & Rogers moved its operations to Santa Clara County.

The town of Colma, on the other hand, recorded a 36.35 per cent increase because of the re-evaluation of a shopping center in that community.

In Half Moon Bay, the assessed valuation was up 16.42 per cent due to new construction there, Estes reported.

Comparatively small increases were reported for Pacifica and San Bruno, where commercial industrial properties were re-evaluated last year.

In reporting his dire prediction for next year concerning residential properties, Estes attributed the predicament to the continuing inflation of 15 per cent a year in property values. He cited an example from the multiple listing service for Menlo Park which reports that the average home sale there for the first five months of 1976 was $96,287, as compared to the average of $87,590 for the year 1975.

The assessor said that reviews of residential property for the 1977-78 assessment roll will be made in the cities of Brisbane, Colma, Daly City, East Palo Alto, Hillsborough, Menlo Park, Pacifica, Portola Valley, San Mateo and Woodside.

Although other cities will not be reviewed, Estes said he plans to "inflation trend" those communities in order that they will not be hit with perhaps as high as 60 per cent increases for the 1978-79 assessment roll.

Estes said that as a result of the long assessment roll increase this year, the county's ratio on which taxes are levied was dropped to 22 per cent, as compared to 25.3 per cent last year.

The city-by-city assessed valuation for 1976-77, with percentage of increase or decrease in parenthesis:

Atherton — $69,992,862 (1.13).
Belmont — $101,552,519 (2.26).
Brisbane — $11,779,022 (-60).

Jury Recommends Chope Stay Open

The San Mateo County Grand Jury "strongly recommends" that Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo be kept open and that a 1965 bond issue be utilized for modernizing the facility.

The recommendations are contained in a report which was received by the Board of Supervisors at its Tuesday meeting.

In the report it is asserted that "the continued functioning of this hospital will provide qualified care at minimal cost."

The fate of Chope Hospital currently is dependent on the results of a year-long decentralized demonstration health care project currently functioning in the South County.

The Board of Supervisors has postponed a decision on the fate of the hospital until the success of the decentralized plan is determined.

In the Grand Jury report, it is stated:

"The primary function of any county health delivery service is to provide and supply qualified care at minimal costs in a humanitarian fashion; the secondary function is to provide emergency and special services to the community at large. Chope Hospital has demonstrated the ability to provide such services."

The Grand Jury says it agrees in concept with the recent recommendation of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council for a consortium of hospitals and county government as the most immediate and practical solution to the county's health care problems, but "questions the methods of expenses possibly associated with a legal consortium."

It is stated in the Grand Jury report that the county has the ability to control its medical costs at its own facilities, but loses such control through association in a legal consortium or through general contracts with private hospitals.

The expensive items and service which private hospitals often duplicate in a community would have to be partially borne by the county in a legal consortium, the report states.

The Grand Jury says that the county should avail itself of the more expensive facilities at the private institutions on a case-by-case basis without duplicating them in the renovation of Chope Hospital.

"Until the county can actually determine its patient costs both at Chope and at private facilities, and until these costs can be projected into a renovated Chope facility versus future private facility costs, there appears to be no rational basis to close Chope Hospital," the report states.

The report goes on to say that the "private, profit motivated sector of the health industry has not demonstrated a willingness or ability to provide health care service to the total community at a reasonable cost.

"Private costs have escalated in a manner which raises questions as to the propriety of committing the county to subsidizing these amounts of future unknown costs, much less without the county having a voice in the level of these costs."

The Grand Jury report notes that the $6.25 million hospital bond issue passed by voters in 1965 for upgrading of Chope Hospital was not utilized because the Medicare/Medicaid program approved the same year enabled most patients to receive care in the private sector, and patient admissions declined at Chope as a result.

"There is marked increase in hospital administrations; emergency visits and outpatient visits at Chope, which has been maintained cosmetically," the Grand Jury report asserts.

Millbrae Council Grants Raises

Millbrae city employes have received salary raises.

The City Council this week unanimously approved a resolution setting new salaries for all of the city's 100 employes.

Police and fire department personnel received a 6 per cent salary increase and a .03 per cent increase in fringe benefits.

Miscellaneous employes, which include most city workers, were given wage hikes of between 6 and 7½ per cent. The city agreed to pay all increases in health and welfare benefits.

The council granted 6 per cent salary increases to all department heads.

City Administrator Lee Horner's salary was increased from $32,400 to $34,344 a year, a 6 per cent boost.

The salary of City Atty. Frank Gillio was held to the same level as last year, $18,468.

The council postponed a decision on setting a new salary for City Treasurer G. Edgar Rogers Jr. pending further discussion.

Rogers recently has come under attack for the wages he received for part-time work. He makes $11,000 annually.

Pacifica Beach Maintenance Again on Ballot

By JANET PARKER

Pacificans will get a second chance on Nov. 2 to approve a tax override for beach maintenance and development in their coastal city.

Three councilmen decided last Monday night that residents didn't understand a similar measure when it was presented in March and that they should get another chance to consider the tax override.

Councilmen Stan Farber and Nick Gust voted against returning the measure to the voters.

But the council members who supported giving voters a second chance said the voters were not given enough information by the City Coucil the first time around for them to make an intelligent decision.

Also on that same March ballot was a measure seeking voter opinion of the state Highway 380 proposal from San Bruno to Pacifica.

That issue has dominated city politics for years and stole the limelight in the election.

The ballot measure in November will propose a 7.5-cent addition to the city tax rate.

Parks, Beaches and Recreation Director Ginny Jaquith estimated beach maintenance and operations in 1977-78 will cost $54,000, including insurance and utilities. A 5.4 cent addition to the tax rate should generate those funds.

In addition, at least two cents of the tax rate proposal will be set aside for development of facilities.

The ballot issue in March proposed a 10-cent tax override.

Mrs. Jaquith said that since then, more accurate estimates of beach mainetenance costs have been made and that's why the proposed tax override was lowered.

The Pacifica tax override proposal — which must be approved by the County Board of Supervisors before it is placed on a ballot — is an outcome of a beach acquisition project.

In 1974, legislation by Assemblyman Lou Papan, D-San Mateo, was approved appropriating $250,000 for acquisition of San Pedro Beach or portions of the beach for public use.

San Mateo County agreed to fund an additional $250,000 and federal Land and Water Conservation funds will provide $500,000 — a project totalling $1 million.

It was understood, however, that the entire beach acquisition hinged upon Pacifica's commitment to provide the maintenance and development of the acquired beach property. Since Pacifica does not have the money in its general fund to meet its commitment, the tax overide is deemed a necessity.

The state had indicated, Mrs. Jaquith said, that it will hold off on any acquisition plans until Pacifica has settled the question of meeting its obligation.

If voters turned down the override again the fate of the beach acquisition will be in the state legislature's hands, she said.

Voters rejected the proposal 2,711 to 3,920 in March.

The Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission has expressed the hope the council would include in the override an additional 2.3 cents for a ranger at the city's fishing pier. The position, along with materials and supplies, would cost the city $19,600 in 1976-77 and $22,620 in 1977-78.

Currently, two rangers are funded by the federal CETA program but funding will run out this month for one position and on Sept. 30 for the second.

The council, however, did not include that in its motion.

Several residents Monday told the council that it is wrong to place the item on a ballot again.

Fred Howard said the council seems to be saying the voters were not intelligent enough to understand it the first time so they will give it to them again.

Another resident, Charles Gust, said the council isn't taking the original vote of the public to heart.

"It is appalling that someone who sits on the council can state that the public was ignorant," Gust said. He pointed out that the county or state should control the city's beach maintenance since residents from all over the county and Bay Area use the beaches, leaving tons of litter behind.

Councilman Nick Gust said he opposes the tax override because the $1 million for beach acquisition isn't enough to purchase the land the state and county expects to buy.

It's been defeated once and it will be defeated again," Gust said.

Mayor Janice Fulford insisted that voters rejected the measure because they didn't understand it.

"I felt the council had been deficient in gathering this information and supplying it to the voters," she said later. Most voters, she said, took the measure as a blank check for the council to use as it pleased.

This time, a committee will be formed by the council to disseminate facts about the beach project.

City Manager Don Weidner said the election will cost from $4,000 to $5,000 and must be added to the 1976-77 budget.

Ballet, Guitarist Perform

July 11 at 3 p.m. will mark the sixth concert in the St. Andrew's Community Concerts series. It will be held at St. Andrew's Catholic Church, corner of Southgate and Sullivan in Daly City.

It will feature Larry Almeida, classical guitarist, and the Daly City Civic Ballet Company under the direction of Diane Roberts.

Almeida is a recent graduate of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and is currently on the faculty at the Conservatory. He has performed in the Bay Area as well as in Lodi and Sacramento. He will play works of Fernando Sor and Manuel Ponce.

The Daly City Civic Ballet Company is under the sponsorship of the City of Daly City and is intended to provide opportunities for dancers and to encourage the community to become involved in the education of the dance.

It was founded in 1971 by Diane Roberts, who still remains the director. Miss Roberts has studied with the Cleveland Ballet Theater and the Chicago Opera Ballet. She danced in the Broadway production of "I Do, I Do" and has worked with various summer stock theaters and nightclubs in the United States.

Donations of $2 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens are asked at the door.

RINGING THE BELL FOR FREEDOM

Heidi Williams of the Burlingame First Presbyterian Church Bell Choir warmed her ringing arm for Sunday afternoon's nationwide bellringing observance of the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Bells were rung for 15 minutes in church carillon towers such as this one at the Episcopal Church of St. Matthew in San Mateo, at 2 p.m. The nationwide observance was sponsored by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration and the Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution, and was titled: "Let Freedom Ring."

Barbara Bladen 'SILENT MOVIE' CAUSES SHRIEKS OF LAUGHTER

"Silent Movie" is Mel Brooks' answer to critics who are always carping about lousy dialogue. He's made a film without any and rather than shut us all up, has succeeded in sending us into shrieks of laughter.

My colleagues to the right and left of me were falling out of their seats during the screening of this most extravagant (outrageous is such a redundant word in describing anything Brooks does) comedy spoof that proves unquestionably that the master of the sight gag can always top himself.

Marty Feldman, Dom DeLuise and Mel Brooks are the advertised stars of this naughty showcase that features hilarious cameos by some of Hollywood's biggest stars. To help ham up the deliciously madcap venture are Paul Newman (looking absolutely gorgeous in a white racing outfit), James Caan, Burt Reynolds, Liza Minnelli, Marcel Marceau (who speaks the only word in the script), Anne Bancroft, Sid Caesar and Bernadette Peters.

While the stars do take-offs on themselves, Brooks weaves into the tour-de-force revamp of an ex-alcoholic producer trying to get back into studio favor by making the first silent movie in 40 years a compendium of sight gags from the vast repertoire of Chaplin, Lloyd, The Marx Bros., gangster movies, the Goon shows, car chases (a dilly of a chase featuring motorized wheelchairs), ripoffs from Monty Python and some of the worst bits from burlesque.

It's an adult film in more ways than one because its constant visual references to other genres is part of the built-in humor. What is funny about the competing studio, Engulf and Devour, if you don't know that Gulf & Western owns Paramount Pictures and that Sid Caesar's face into which are stuck two big cigars as his profile turns towards the screen with a mated female cat's screech is the M-G-M lion roar?

There is little left out of this cornucopia of sick jokes that lampoons sex, physical infirmity, old movies, the art of slapstick (pie in the face variety and variations of slipping on the banana peel) and even such old chestnuts as "waiter, there is a fly in my soup" as a monstrous bug flips off the top of a pesticide service van.

All you want to know of the dialogue is written onto the screen especially the important lines like "whisper, whisper, whisper" and "Oh, my God" in case you miss the exaggerated lip movements on the screen. This isn't liable to tax the viewer who has never enjoyed movies with subtitles. What it does is give you a respite from stomach-clutching, jaw-stretching, eye-crying laughter.

If they ever do a retrospective of Mel Brooks film clips at the San Francisco Film Festival, they'll have to have a doctor in attendance to revive members of the audience whose nervous systems can't stand too much convulsive laughter. The screenplay for "Silent Movie" was written by Brooks, Ron Clark, Trudy DeLuca and Barry Levinson. What a bunch of crazies they must be to think up such hilarity, although they had a lot of help from Buster Keaton, the Three Stooges and the Ritz Brothers too.

Pacifica Spares Budget, Ups Class Fees

Pacifica's Recreation Department was spared a proposed $50,000 cut in its 1976-77 budget this week.

The City Council instead decided to increase recreation class fees to obtain an additional $5,000 for the city next year.

The council's decision was applauded by residents who attended the budget session Wednesday night in support of keeping intact the recreation department's $336,493 budget proposal for next year.

Saddled with a barely balanced budget and a proposal by the city manager for a 46-cent increase in the tax rate, the council has been closely scrutinizing department budgets.

Councilman Nick Gust at an earlier meeting had proposed a $50,000 cutback in the recreation budget, and the council then directed Parks, Beaches and Recreation Director Ginny Jaquith to prepare a list of possible deletions.

With many recreation enthusiasts in the audience, the council rejected the possible program deletions and voted, 3-2, for a simple fee increase for adult recreation programs.

Councilmen Gust and Stan Farber voted against the increase.

An earlier motion by Farber to eliminate the after-school sports program — a $5,438 savings — as well as to increase adult fees died for lack of a second.

Gust, who had proposed a list of budget cutbacks that would save the city $685,511, was silent while the council spared the recreation budget.

However, after the meeting he said the council didn't take seriously enough his proposal to cut recreation.

He said that the parks, beaches and recreation director's approach of "hitting people right in the guts" was typical.

"Anybody who would have cut $50,000 from recreation tonight would have been a bad guy," Gust said. He said the council was reacting to the packed house, not budget priorities.

Mrs. Jaquith's priority list included, in order, no change in the budget, a raise in all program fees totaling $12,000; elimination of the sports program, $5,255; elimination of teen programs, Youth Advisory Commission and after school sports, totaling $16,353, and elimination of the swim team support, $15,361.

Other possible deletions were instructional programs, aquatics, seniors in action, community centers and Y-teens.

PBR Commission Chairman Harvey Barnett argued against an increase in recreation fees. He said that the fee hike would result in decreased participation and an increase in juvenile vandalism.

Barnett said continual fee increases will allow only the most affluent to participate and that the fees paid for a whole family at one time represent a significant portion of monthly salaries.

He also said recreation should be treated as a necessity, as are the police and fire departments, not a frill.

When fees were increased last year, participation dropped slightly in programs at all levels.

Farber said he was concerned that families should have the opportunity to pay recreation fees on an installment basis so they would not consume such a significant portion of a salary at one time.
